the American Legion at the meet-period the post attained a fine degree of organization. The election turns of the national election.

Brewell W. Applegate, for the last year active in all work of the post, was elected vice commander.

OLD FAVORITES WILL BE PLAYED BY SOUSA'S BAND

There will be new as well as older tunes of stirring quality to whistle and hum, for John Philip Sousa, "The March King," and his wonderful band that has enlivened all the civilized world, is to come to the Coliseum, Davenport, Friday evening, Nov. 12.

With the organization, complete in itself with the many noted soloists belonging to it, will be brought a number of vocalists of high reputation.

No other bandmaster has ever reached the popularity given to Sousa, partially because of the charm of his programs that include both the presentation of, possibly a Wagnerian opera number and the lightest and most joyous of ragtime dances—and always some of the typical Sousa marches that have set the world to marking time, like the "Washington Post," "Stars and Stripes Forever," "Semper Parvulus" and many others. Then, too, Sousa has been far from idle, and there are new numbers within the last few months that have become famous at the Hippodrome and have leaped into wide popularity, such as "The Boy Scouts of America" march, the "New York Hippodrome" march, "Dwellers of the Western World" and "Pathfinders of Panama" march.

Whatever the announced Sousa program, almost as many unexpected delights and music novelties come in response to encores as in the regular list, for Sousa is famously generous to his public.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE SPENCER.
The famous western melodrama, "The Round Up," has reached the apex and will be shown at the Spencer Square theatre for four days commencing Sunday next. By special arrangement with Joseph H. Schenck, Spencer Artistic, the heavyweight comedy star, plays the role of "Slim" Hoover, the sheriff.
Edmond Day's "The Round Up" has been played with enormous success on the road for several years and is familiar to theatre patrons throughout the country.
The story centers around the love of Jack Payson for Echo Allen, the ranch owner's daughter. Echo is engaged to Dick Lane, who falls into misadventure at the hands of a band of Apaches led by half-breed Buck McKee. In Dick's absence, Echo falls in love with Jack Payson and marries him, believing Dick dead.
On the day of the wedding Dick appears at the Allen ranch. When he learns of the marriage, he disappears into the desert.
Echo sends Jack after him to prove she has not broken faith. Together they fight McKee's Apaches and Jack is rescued in the nick of time by U. S. cavalry. However, Jack and McKee are both killed in the battle. Echo accepts Jack upon his return.
